

Kakadu Highlights No. 2: February 18 - March 3, 2018

Experience the wonder of bushwalking in the Wet the easy way. Each part of this trip has been chosen to show you the best that Kakadu has to offer at this time of year. We begin with easy acclimatisation day walks followed by a short two-night walk and finally an eight-night expedition. But even here, we don't carry packs long distances and do day walks from a base camp or two along the way.

Section 1: Warming Up: February 18-23

With maximum temperatures in the mid 30's and nightly minimum temperatures in the mid 20's, our first day will be an easy one to allow the group to acclimatise. We begin with the 300 km drive from Darwin to Kakadu which normally takes three to three and a half hours. If time and conditions permit, we may do a short nature walk at Fogg Dam or the Mamukala Billabong on the way. After lunch, we continue on to the Bowali Centre at Park Headquarters which contains a wealth of displays including a multi-screen slide show that takes you through the six seasons that the park experiences each year. We plan to spend at least an hour and a half here, perhaps longer. We then continue to Jabiru where we spend the night at Anbinik. See www.kakadu.net.au/ for more information about Anbinik.

Bush tucker lesson on the Guluyambi tour

If water levels permit, we will do the Guluyambi Aboriginal cultural tour the next day. This tour combines a wetland cruise and a visit to Ubirr. Guluyambi brings you the relationship between Aboriginal people and their land, their culture. This particular tour is only offered for about two months per year when high water on the Magela floodplain gives access to a wetland seen by only a few.

The boat dodges and weaves past majestic paperbarks, then glides across shallow floodplains where grasses and lily pads stretch for the surface of the pandanus and mangrove lined wetland. Wildlife, often difficult to spot, is abundant in this rich, secluded environment. Normally, there are two crew, a skipper (who may or may not be Aboriginal) and an Aboriginal guide. The guide will talk of past and present traditional ways, describe bush tucker, demonstrate how hunting tools were made and tell tales of the dreamtime. The guides are proud of their heritage and welcome your questions.

From the boat, we continue by bus to Ubirr, arguably Kakadu's best Aboriginal occupation site. This area is rich in ecological variations and has inspiring panoramic views. Visiting Ubirr at this time of year gives a greater understanding of traditional Aboriginal life as this is the season that the shelters were occupied, the time when traditional food supplies were especially abundant. With tourist crowds and buses gone, we will have the site almost to ourselves. We return to Jabiru and Anbinik where you have the late afternoon free to relax and enjoy the pool or do a scenic flight.

You can see more photos from the Guluyambi tour on our Facebook album,

This is the time of year when Kakadu's waterfalls are at their most spectacular. However, unless you are prepared to do a three week walk, a scenic flight is the only way you can see them. We will make sure that those who wish to do a flight have the opportunity to do so sometime in the first three days. If anyone wishes to do the scenic flight over Jim Jim and Twin Falls, we will do this on the third morning if we haven't already done it.

Gubara at normal wet season level – looks inviting

From Jabiru, we head off to Gubara (Baroalba Springs). We don our packs and do a short walk along an old 4WD track (or a longer walk if the road is flooded) to Gubara and the first of our swims for the day.

After the swim, a short, steep climb brings us onto the plateau.

Gubara camp – a big pool, small sandy beach and plenty of high flat ground in case of a flood.

From there it normally takes about an hour and a half to get to our campsite next to a pool which we should have to ourselves. But, this is the wet season. If water levels are as shown in the photo at right, we can wait for them to drop or move on and do something else. Fortunately, floods like this seldom last for very long.

Gubara in full flood. Spectacular, but swimming not recommended.

The following day, we leave our packs and do a walk upstream to enjoy more pools and have a look at a few of the many art sites for which the area is famous. In keeping with the wishes of the Aboriginal traditional owners, we do not publish photos of those sites in these notes.

The next day is again an easy one. We put on our packs and retrace our steps to the car. We then drive to Cooina where we do a short cultural walk with one of the senior Aboriginal traditional owners and visit the Warradjan Aboriginal Cultural Centre. If the cultural walk is not available, we will do the late afternoon Yellow Waters cruise.

Yellow Waters cruise. In the dry season, every seat would be full.

We spend the night in budget accommodation at Cooina. The next morning we do the early Yellow Waters Cruise. This is the best way to experience Kakadu's wetlands – great to look at but not the best place for a bushwalk.

Section 2: Motorcar and Kurrundie Creeks: February 22 - March 3

The Motorcar-Kurrundie loop is the best, easily accessible walk in southern Kakadu at this time of year. Our schedule allows us to travel at a leisurely pace, include more walking without full packs and see many special places which no other tour can visit.

The walk begins at the Yurmikmik car park in the southern part of Kakadu, about 150 kilometres from Cooina. We start with a fairly flat 45 minute walk along a marked trail to the main falls and pool on Motorcar Creek — a beautiful spot and our first swim stop. From here we may decide to set up camp and do a day walk or move directly to the upper part of Motorcar Creek.

Motorcar Falls. This is the only place we are likely to see other people.

Walking past one of the many pools on upper Motorcar.

Motorcar Creek splits into several branches not far above the falls. These offer one of the most concentrated collections of small waterfalls and pools in Kakadu. We gradually work our way up along one or more of these branches, stopping for a swim any time a pool is just too inviting to resist.

We may do some of these with full packs. We will almost certainly spend at least one day exploring without full packs.

The central section of Kurrundie Creek is beautiful, with a number of deep pools and nice waterfalls. The walking is, however, fairly difficult. Depending on the wishes of the group, we may do a short walk to Kurrundie and follow it down to the main falls or we may follow a different branch of Motorcar back to the main falls.

Lower Motorcar Falls. This is the one we'll have to ourselves.

Kurrundie top falls.

If time permits, we may include the lower loop which takes us through lower Kurrundie Gorge with its steep walls and long pools and along the lower section of Motorcar Creek with its lovely waterfall.

Whichever route we have chosen, a short walk on the final day brings us back to the vehicle for the drive to Darwin, arriving some time in the late afternoon.

Terrain and Difficulty

Overall Level 3

Climate Level 5. It will be hot (although not as hot as you might think) and it will be humid. The average daily maximum is 33-34°C (91-94°F). If we get a spell of relatively dry weather, the temperature could reach 40°C (104°F). The average minimum is 24°C (75°F). Sleeping bags are not needed. Rain is almost certain.

On average it will rain two days out of three, mostly in short, sharp bursts. Averages can, however, be misleading. Occasionally, it might rain for days at a time. (This makes it somewhat harder to walk but it also makes the waterfalls more spectacular and keeps it relatively cool.) Occasionally, it may rain very little. This makes it substantially hotter than normal. There will be many opportunities to swim and cool off, but you must be prepared for hot, humid conditions.

Terrain Level 3-4.

Section 1. The first short section of the two-night walk is on a marked and maintained trail. Much of the rest of the walk is relatively flat, but there are some short, steep climbs and some rock-hopping. Exceptionally heavy rain could mean we have to swim our packs across a flooded creek.

Section 2. Whichever route we choose, the beginning of the walk is fairly flat and straightforward. There is a short but sharp climb up at Motorcar Falls and a similar climb down at Kurrundie. There will be a substantial amount of rock hopping along the creeks. The creeks are likely to be low enough so that swimming across with packs will not be necessary. Exceptional rain could cause this to change.

Both sections. Even in the boggiest of seasons, Kakadu has nothing that can compare with the mud of Tasmania. However, if you have a particularly wet year, you may find yourself sinking up to mid calf regularly on some sections.

None of the walking is on a marked trail. If you have never done any off-track walking through moderately rough terrain, nothing we can say can adequately describe the experience. The photos on our website, www.bushwalkingholidays.com.au, can give you a partial picture, but they cannot substitute for the real thing. Most of those who have not had any off-track walking experience find it more difficult than those who have done it before.

Anyone who does not regularly (average twice a month) go bushwalking carrying a full pack would benefit from doing some pre-trip training. Do this and you will almost certainly enjoy the trip. If you are not an experienced off-track bushwalker and you don't do any training or any other form of strenuous physical exercise, you might feel that the trip is more of an endurance test than the pleasure most people experience.

Vegetation	Level 2-4. Much of the walking is through relatively flat, open woodland with a grassy understorey. Some short sections of grass may hide a broken rocky surface where you will have to be particularly careful. There may be some slow sections where you will have to pass through thick scrub. The vegetation can vary from year to year depending on when last burnt. The spear grass normally reaches its peak in March, often three or four metres tall in some areas (much shorter in others). We are likely to encounter short sections of partially collapsed and seeding spear grass during some portion of the trip, but this early it is unlikely that there will be as much as later in March.
Hours	Generally 4-6 hours. A few days might be longer. Section two rates as level four because of the long first day. Those who have already done section one seldom find it particularly difficult.
Packs	Pack weight - level 3. You need to carry up to nine days food. This will include about 2½-3½ kg of the evening meals. You do not need a sleeping bag but you do need a tent and fly.
Art	We visit a number of art sites, but not as many as on some of our other trips.
Campsites	Mix of sand and rock ledges. Most sites are good to excellent but we have to avoid some of our dry season campsites which could get flooded. You are unlikely to see anyone else anywhere along most of the routes.
Swims	This is the best time to see Kakadu's waterfalls. We will have good pools at almost every campsite and lunch spot.
Lowlights	Heat and humidity. Possible lack of rain can make it more uncomfortable than normal. Exceptional rain can slow us down. Carrying food for a week.
Highlights	Aboriginal guide. Several waterfalls seen at their spectacular best. Great swimming. The lush green landscape that dry season visitors can only imagine.
Wildlife	Birds are always present but spread out at this time of year. You are unlikely to see many large animals.
Fishing	Not permitted on section one. Possible on part of section two.

Notes — both sections.

We strongly recommend that anyone interested in this trip have a good look at all three of our Walking in the Wet pages beginning with www.bushwalkingholidays.com.au/wet.shtml

Rain is very likely at this time of year. It is very important that you pack well enough so that you can keep most things in your pack dry, even if you have to pack a wet tent or other wet items. A pack liner is essential at this time of year. Garbages are not satisfactory.

Extreme wet season rains can close roads. There is a small chance that we might have to change one or both of the walks. There is even a small chance that our return to Darwin will be delayed. We recommend not booking a flight the night you are scheduled to return.

Those doing both sections of the trip will have to carry only what they need on each section. Additional food and clothing can be left in the vehicle during the walks.

You should keep a water bottle, your lunch and some money with you in the car during the drives as it may be difficult to get into your pack before the end of the journey.
